

James Forrester and Ann Scott

James Forrester and Ann Scott

James, the natural son of William Forrester and Margaret Henderson could not have been more than nineteen and Ann Scott, daughter of John Scott and Elizabeth Hay no more than eighteen when William, apparently their first child, was born in 1814. Their marriage is recorded in

Denny. Stirling:

1815 Jan 21 James Forrester in the parish of Cumbernauld & Agnes Scott, servant Loanhead gave in their names in order to marriage & were proclaimed on three Sundays & were married on the 10th February following.

The births of their children are all recorded together in 1837 in the parish of Cumbernauld 495/3 FR 593

1 Jan 1814 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named William.

15 Aug 1816 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named John

1 April 1821 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named Joseph

16 Aug 1826 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named James

24 Sept 1828 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named Elizabeth

28 Oct 1830 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named Ann

1 Jan 1832 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named Alexander

28 Oct 1835 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named David 20 Nov 1837 Forrester James & Ann Scott Tollpark had a child born & baptized after named Hugh.

The 1841 census shows that the whole family has survived childhood – quite an achievement in those days. In that census, the ages of those over fifteen should have been rounded down to the nearest five years. This does not appear to have been adhered to in this case.

Note that Parkhead, which was at one time farmed by James, is at the bottom of the above map.

By 1851 there is something of a mystery! Who is the twenty-six year old George? He did not appear among the births or in the 1841 census but is clearly named here as a son of James and Ann. James's will later confirmed that George was a son but why was his birth never recorded?

Ten years later again, and James senior has retired from the farm and he and Ann are living nearby at Faulds Cottage where there is one inhabited house and one uninhabited.

No inventory or confirmation has been found for Ann but James left estate valued at £87-2s-3d (worth around £4300 in 2001) and the Confirmation and Inventory are included as an appendix. In brief, the will confirms the names of all James's family, including that of George, who had died before 1858, when the will was written. It also makes clear that Ann Forrester, the granddaughter of James and Ann, mentioned in the 1861 census was the daughter of George and Ann Milne. Heritable property would not be included in the will as, at that time it passed automatically to the eldest son.

Two references to James have been found in Sasines Abridgements:

Jan 21 1881

The full sasine reveals all that has been discovered about James's father, William Forrester and Margaret Henderson, his wife, and about William's brother, Adam, and nephew, William. A summary of the main points is given below.

RS59/240/3 “At Stirling the seventeenth day of July in the year eighteen hundred and forty six the sasine underwritten being presented.....is registered as follows vis^t: At Falkirk and written within my writing Chambers there was by or on behalf of James Forrester farmer Toll Park near Cumbernauld natural son of the deceased William Forrester tenent in Parkhead in the Parish of Cumbernauld presented to me Notary Public subscribing a Trust Disposition and Settlement granted by the said deceased William Forrester to and in favour of Margaret Henderson his spouse, John Henderson Garanhar, Alexander Kirkwood farmer Haggs, Matthew Allan wright Cumbernauld and William Stevenson Innkeeper there and the acceptors or acceptor and survivors or survivor of them as trustees and trustee for the ends use and purposes therein mentioned bearing date as in the precept of sasine and testing clause hereinafter inserted by which trust disposition and settlement the said William Forrester assigned, disposed conveyed and made over to and in favour of the said Margaret Henderson, John Henderson, Alexander Kirkwood Matthew Allan and William Stevenson and the acceptors or acceptor and survivors or survivor of them as trustees forsaid

“.....All and whole that piece of ground part of the lands of Longcroft situated upon the south side of the turnpike road leading to Glasgow by Cumbernauld consisting of twenty falls of ground and extending in front along the south side of the said turnpike road to forty feet bounded as follows vis^l. on the east side and west by the lands of James Russell of Longcroft and on the north by the said turnpike road conform to pit stones meiths and marches infixed with the dwelling house lately built thereon possessed by James Hair and Janet Adam spouses all lying within the Parish of Denny and Shire of Stirling.”

Margaret Henderson retains “lifetime rent use allenary during all the days and years of her life as particularly expressed in the conveyance granted in her favour by Andrew Adam late Carter at Parkfoot of Falkirk then in Larbert dated 11th and 12th May 1808 and recorded in the Particular Register of Sasines of Stirling and Clackmannan on fourth June eighteen hundred and ten years”.

In the Trust Disposition and Settlement he (William Forrester) willed and declared that it was his intention that William Forrester lawful son of his brother Adam Forrester should succeed to the forsaid heritable subjects before described and directed that upon the said William Forrester attaining the age of twenty five years the property should be made over to him, subject to the liferent of his spouse before mentioned.

If she dies before he reaches the age of twenty five he gets the rents and produce of the said subjects until he is twenty five. If he dies before twenty five and has no heirs of his body or in the event of his leaving the country to go to and arriving in America even although with the intention to return he forfeits all rights and title to the forsaid heritable subjects and the same should fall and belong to James Forrester the son of William Forrester. Upon the said William Forrester attaining the age of twenty five years the property should be made over to him, subject to the liferent of his spouse before mentioned. If she dies before he reaches the age of twenty five he gets the rents and produce of the said subjects until he is twenty five.

William had gone to America, James had attained twenty-five years so the land was made over to him “All and whole the forsaid piece of ground and house thereon.”

There follows a declaration that “Alexander Kirkwood farmer Faulds though named in the before written deed is notwithstanding thereof to have no rights whatever to act in the capacity of one of my trustees or to interfere in any manner with the application or management of the subjects before conveyed and that his name was deleted before subscription by William Forrester at Parkhead the fourteenth March eighteen hundred and twelve years.”

The whole document was:

“Witnessed by Malcolm Brown road contractor at Muirhead near Cumbernauld Angus Malcolm groom to Lord Elphinstone at Cumbernauld House and by the said Margaret Henderson at Cumbernauld Inn sixteenth March year forsaid.” Margaret Henderson did not sign – ”she declares she cannot write from her never having learned to do so and she having as token of the authority given to us touched each of our pens.” (Before this the deed had been read over to Margaret).

Sasine Abridgement:

The full 1810 sasine (RS59/51/20) contains no further information. The description of the plot and house are exactly the same as in 1846. The 1846 phrase “lately built thereon” is even copied from this sasine.
