Notes:

A superscript usually indicates abbreviation. The prefix y stands for th and should be pronounced th.

For example: ye is the, y^rin is therein, y^rfor is therefore, y^ranent is thereanent (concerning that).

Vis^t – videlicet (to wit, namely)

Impr^s – imprimis (in the first place).

atsomever - whatsoever

Tarry – a farm near Arbroath.

Tilliewhanlan – probably the farm now called Tilliwhandland, south of Aberlemno.

Conversion factors for money in 1742: £12 Scots \cong £1 English. (Separate currencies for Scotland and England were abolished in 1707 and re-coining took place in 1709. Amounts of money, however continued to be quoted in £Scots in testaments for many years thereafter.) £100 in 1724 \cong £10354.91 in 2002.
